

My name is Eric Tscharner, I am a devoted family man and an experienced professional. I currently reside in Bow Mar with my wife Karen and my three daughters: Charlie (11), Grayson (10), and Jett (8). Originally from Fort Collins, I made Denver my home after completing my education at Colorado State University.

With a solid foundation in business and a commitment to community service, I have spent the last 26 years as a commercial construction consultant, bringing my expertise to various projects including schools, community centers and municipal projects. My dedication to excellence and attention to detail have made me a trusted figure in the industry.

In my leisure time, I enjoy skiing, hunting, fishing and jiu jitsu. I also enjoy digging in the dirt to find the perfect tomato.

My connection to the community goes beyond my professional life. I'm actively involved in the lives of my daughters, with Charlie attending Goddard Middle School, Grayson thriving in fourth grade at Wilder Elementary School, and Jett also making her mark in 2nd grade at Wilder. This commitment to family and community has fueled my desire to contribute further to my community.

I served on the board of Skyline swim club, I volunteered my consulting to the Denver historic district as well as Episcopal diocese of Colorado.

Believing in the power of collaboration and strategic planning, I'm enthusiastic about the opportunity to serve as a trustee for the town. I am confident that my wealth of experience and the strategic planning skills I acquired in the commercial construction field will be helpful to the town. As a prospective trustee, I will embody the qualities of leadership, community engagement, and a forward-thinking mindset. You can count on me to actively work to help ensure a bright and sustainable future for all residents.
